2014-2015 University Honors Program Faculty Liaisons

The Honors Program Faculty Liaisons are outstanding faculty members in the Honors Program, who have a well-established record of excellence for the honors course they teach. They have been designated by the Honors Program to serve as the lead instructor for their specific course and as a resource, as needed, for the other faculty members who are offering that course.

The responsibilities that an Honors Faculty Liaison might be called upon to assume include:
--offering advice about how they teach their section of the course, including information about their syllabus and assignments;
--reading over a draft of a proposed syllabus and offering suggestions and encouragement;
--being available for a peer teaching consultation, if one is requested by the instructor;
--encouraging new faculty members to apply to teach in the program.

The Liaison provides particularly important support to new faculty members who are preparing to offer an honors course for the first time.

Honors Faculty Liaisons for 2014-2015:

HON100  Michael Raleigh, WRD
HON101  Eileen Seifert, WRD
HON102  Ana Schaposchnik, History
HON104  Kalyani Menon, Religious Studies
HON105  Will McNeill, Philosophy
HON110 Discover:  Mike Edwards, First Year Program
HON111 Explore:  Doug Long, First Year Program
HON180  David Jabon, STEM
HON201  Phillip Stalley, Political Science
HON205  Matthew Girson, AMD
HON207  Bob Rotenberg, Anthropology
HON225  Bernhard Beck-Winchatz, STEM
HON301  Carolyn Goffman, English
HON350  Peter Steeves, Philosophy
HON351  Nancy Grossman, Honors Program